NIKKO BLUE HYDRANGEA—

The most beautiful hardy blue hydrangea. Nikko Blue is hardy—having withstood 20° below zero. The tops die down annually but give them a little mulch protection and here they come next spring growing into bushy shrubs 2 to 4 feet tall with luxuriant foliage and tremendous masses of flowers. The flowers are borne on new wood annually. What a show to see this shrub covered with a mass of blooms some of which measure a foot across! Blooms pink in alkaline or sweet soil; blooms blue in acid or sour soil. To change alkaline soil to acid treat with aluminum sulphate—two tablespoons mixed in a gallon of water.

Used for foundation specimens, single lawn accent plants, shrub borders or for planting in tubs or flower boxes. A wonderful container item.
